PLUS+1® GUIDE Development Tool

- Symbols and components are selected from a palette and dropped onto the drawing space.
- Danfoss developed function blocks are available for common control requirements such as PID control, ramp, filter, and command signal profiles.
- GUIDE compliance blocks allow rapid integration of input and output signals from Danfoss electrohydraulic products through the use of predetermined signal types and parameter default settings.
- Graphical programming reduces the number of steps required to develop an application; source code is generated directly from the application drawing to reduce coding errors.
- On-line and context-sensitive help allows easy comprehension of product features.
- Application data logging aids machine diagnostics.

Service Tool

PLUS+1® includes an easy to use download feature. Application files are downloaded to the target controller via CAN. The download tool allows PLUS+1® users to access all of the controllers and intelligent modules on the PLUS+1® network. Simple, fast, reliable communications between a controller, or network of controllers, and a PC USB port is accomplished with the CG150 CAN/USB gateway.
